burst into flames

i was born in the desert in the middle of summer in a place where the sun is everywhere

everything

where every day is hotter than the one that came before it and I realized that one day

I would
burst into flames

it is summer again

and every day is hotter than the one that came before it it has always been this way it will always be this way it will always end this way it was always going to end this way this is how it ends this is always how it ends ~~the ending is inevitable~~ there is no other ending ~~the end remains the same~~
